Excerpt: . . . surrendering to another the privilege of reaping from his own soil, what is only the average recompense of labour expended on the estate of another. In the first of the above extracts, MANSNI, with his usual accuracy, describes the chief incidents of the land tenure of the Malays, as they exist among the people of the Peninsula as well as among those of Sumatra; and it is subsequently shewn that among the Sundanese in the west of Java---a people who in their customs and language bear a much nearer resemblance to the Malays than do the people of any other part of Java--those incidents which have relation to the alienation of land are almost identical with those which obtain among the Malays. I am inclined to think that the superior permanency of the tenure of the Sundanese, when compared with that of the Javanese, is to be...
