These Crickets are not only very thirsty, but very voracious: for they will eat the scummings of pots, yeast, salt, and crumbs of bread; and any kitchen oflal or sweepings. In the summer they have been observed to fly, when it becomes dusk, out of the windows and over the neighbouring roofs. Thil feat of activity accounts for the sudden manner in which they often leave their haunts, as it does, also, for the method by which they come to houses where they were not known before. It is remarkable, that many sorts of insects seem never to use their wings but when they wish to shift their quarters and settle new colonies. When in the air, they move in waves, or curves, like the woodpeckers, opening and shutting their wings at every stroke, and thus are always...
