A fierce Norman knight. Can a young maidens gentle surrender quell the fires raging in the heart of her Norman captor Captured by the brutal Norman invaders who stole her home, Lady Rhiann is taken to London and wed to the kings loyal vassal, Nathan. Now as she waits in her new husbands quarters for the true consummation of her fateful choice, Rhiann fights her terror at the prospect of the night ahead. She wonders if a man who has spent his life surrounded by war and destruction learn to love Is it safe to trust her heart and her secrets to him Prologue: The queens prediction proved accurate. The heavy door barely closed behind Matilda when Rhiann heard it creak open again. She stood in front of the hearth trying to draw ragged breaths into her suddenly tight throat. She refused to turn around; hoping a few more moments would help her gather her courage to face the terror of the night ahead. Nathan stepped into his room and closed the door behind him, sliding the wood latch into place to bar any interruptions. He saw his wife stiffen at his entrance. He drew in a deep breath in an attempt to calm his raging needs. His brides slender form was outlined by the light from the fire. The see-through gown did little to hide her naked body from his avid gaze. He needed to gather his discipline before she turned to face him, lest he terrify her with his lustful intent. He drew a steadying breath, willing his thudding heart to slow down. He was never going to be able to summon...
